In a discussion the other evening over possible uses of projection machines, some unique proposals were offered.

The first was advanced by a person who frankly admitted that he would like to spend his life in bed.

He said that he had often thought a machine which projected moving pictures onto the ceiling of his own bedroom would be the acme of luxury and enjoyment.

"There is no place so conducive to sleep," he asserted, "as a moving picture theatre. So movies, silent ones, flashed on the bedroom wall or ceiling would be the finest cure in the world for insomnia."

"Besides there is nothing so miserable to the insomnia as the boredom of the hours in bed. Even if he did not sleep, he would be diverted by the pictures and his mind would be kept from his restlessness."

They certainly ~~be~~ be good in hospitals, the doctor inquired. Pollyanna called them, must remain stationary for hours upon hours.

And another soul piped up, "What about barber shops?"

"They'd be swell to watch while you're tipped up getting a shave."

"Yes," answered the first person, "but just as the movie got to its most exciting part, the barber would straighten the chair, hand you a mirror and ask how it looks."

Which comment somehow brought the subject around to the movies in the ferry building.

They are always of a quarrel between a husband and wife and never have a beginning or an end.

A few moments before the boat comes they stop abruptly wherever they are.

Besides that they are flickery, painful to watch and with out any explanation.

Speaking of insomnia, some radio station could bring its popularity to the highest point if they would feature an all-night program with soft, sweet and low music with no announcing or vocal numbers.

McNab Will Not Defend Lamson; Lawyers Argue

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12—UP—A disagreement with attorneys already consulted in the coming trial of David A. Lamson, charged with the Stanford university campus murder of his wife, today caused John L. McNab, prominent San Francisco attorney, to reject a bid to join the defense staff.

McNab reasserted his belief in Lamson's innocence, but said: "Certain persons who have been consulted are unable to agree with me on the policy to be followed in the trial of this action."

These are believed to be Thomas Carlson of Richmond and Wilbur Pierce of Oakland.

Lamson is held at San Jose and will be tried August 21.

Misinformation

NOT A WORD TRUE

Good news for Richmond horse owners!

Five large eastern breweries are now making plans to construct branches in this city.

They will need horses. Big horses with long tails, hefty feet and lots of pull-power.

The horses will be used to haul the brewery trucks and to haul the bottling and barreling works. Brewers say they prefer the old time horse-drawn truck to the modern motor drag.

So, if you own a horse—a big horse—get him in condition for you will be able to sell him to a beer baron before long.

Won't it be ducky to see a lot of horse-drawn beer wagons weaving through the traffic of our city's busy streets?

America—England In Currency War

War Gets Hot Over Synthetic Children

DETROIT, July 12—More and more interesting grows the case of Mrs. Mate Hommel and her three "laboratory babies."

The three men who should know the most of these three daughters were all located in Detroit and had to say about the subject. One mother also had something to tell the press—and the battle rages.

James Gardner Shelley, wealthy Cincinnati business man and former Detroit resident, denied he was the ex-husband of Mrs. Hommel. His aged and patrician mother intimated that he was.

Mrs. Hommel, divorced wife of a California physician, testified in a Los Angeles court that her three attractive daughters, born while she was the wife of a "James G. Shelley" were "laboratory babies" whose father she did not see until after their birth.

Meanwhile Prosecutor Harry S. Toy prepared to question doctors to learn whether the birth certificates of the "synthetic babies" were in any way falsified. Drs. John N. Bell and S. C. Hanna, whose names appear on the birth certificates as attending physicians, say they can't remember the cases.

Shelley, arriving here for a motor trade meeting, refused to discuss the case and denied he knew anything about it.

His mother, Mrs. A. S. Hitchings, however, told newspapermen: "I don't think my boy ought to deny he was ever married to that woman, unfortunate though the whole thing is. We should tell the truth at all times."

"But it seems a terrible price to pay for a youthful folly."

Mother Indignant

The mother agreed with Raphael Corcoran, well-to-do young Detroit bachelor, in ridiculing Mrs. Hommel's story of "scientific birth." Mrs. Hommel named a Raphael Corcoran as the "scientific father," Corcoran as the "scientific father."

Cerrito Blaze Brings End to Haystack, Barn

A double alarm brought all El Cerrito firemen to the scene of a blaze yesterday at Hale and Curtis streets, El Cerrito.

The fire turned out to be a combination haystack and barn conflagration. Over a ton and a half of hay was a total loss and the barn was burned to the ground despite the valiant efforts of the fire fighters.

The two alarms which were emphatic enough to be audible as far as San Pablo were caused by a passerby turning in a second alarm from a box after firemen had already reached the scene.

Wreck Victims Out of Danger

Two men, injured early yesterday morning in an automobile accident at the Santa Fe crossing, will suffer no serious effects from their narrow escape with death, it was reported last night.

The men, Emil E. Johnson, 32, Standard Oil company employee of New York and Tom V. Benassi, 22 of 141 Nineteenth street, Richmond were hurt when their machine ran into a train.

Benassi was able to leave the hospital late yesterday and Johnson was reported out of danger, although he will be forced to stay under a physician's care for some time.

The car in which the two men were riding burst into flames and was destroyed.

Apricot Prices Higher than '32

SAN JOSE, July 12—UP—A scale of prices for advance payment on 1933 apricots that is two and three cents per pound higher than at last year's opening was adopted today by directors of the California Prune and Apricot Growers association.

The growers are present in even greater numbers than in 1931, one of the committee said. "They are mowing down entire corn fields, leaving them as barren as if they had been burned over."

LONDON, July 12—UP—The somberly quiet atmosphere around the deathbed of the world economic conference was rudely shattered today by disension which broke out between the United States and Great Britain over America's contention the discussion of cooperation among the central banks for currency stabilization was premature and futile.

This contention was voiced by Senator Key Pittman of Nevada during a meeting of the monetary subcommittee on permanent measures for currency reform. Pittman declared officials in the federal reserve bank considered that cooperation to prevent speculation and currency fluctuations on exchange markets should be taken up later.

Disrupts Session
The United States attitude disrupted the session, seeking subjects on which the conference could proceed with authority, and the Americans decided to refer the question back to Washington for a formal opinion by President Roosevelt.

Members of the American delegation said Senator Pittman's action had been misunderstood, and that he had not meant the United States would refuse to discuss cooperation among central banks.

The Scottish merely wanted to clarify the position of Washington where it is felt, he said, such discussion now "is academic and without any immediate applicability." Hence a decision to discuss cooperation here he felt was premature, and a matter for the banks themselves to discuss.

Get Angry
British and Canadian circles were angered by the American decision to hold up the commission's approval of this subject until word was received from the president, and said so in plain language.

The Americans again were blamed for creating a definite rift in the conference, following their refusal to discuss currency stabilization.

Several Americans tonight admitted that possibly Pittman acted too precipitately, but the United Press learned the senator received word from the Federal Reserve Bank prior to his speech to the commission.

Hull Calm

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chairman, was surprised by the furor the other delegations made over this impasse.

"The heavens won't fall if they do or don't discuss cooperation," the secretary commented. "I don't want to discuss it."

A possibility that Washington will reverse this position tomorrow was seen. Hull asked for fresh instructions tonight.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET

VALLEJO, July 12—Means of raising Solano County's share of the Democratic National party's deficit, will be discussed Friday afternoon at a meeting of the county Democratic committee at Fairfield. The meeting, called by Jack Madigan, chairman, will be held in the supervisors' room at the courthouse.

NEBRASKA FIGHTING PESTS

LINCOLN, Neb., July 12—UP—Hordes of gnawing grasshoppers in vading northeastern Nebraska caused farmers to hurry to Governor Charles W. Bryan today with pleas for aid.

In Holt and Boyd counties the pests are leveling fields and doing unparalleled damage to crops. The executive was told.

"The grasshoppers are present in even greater numbers than in 1931," one of the committee said. "They are mowing down entire corn fields, leaving them as barren as if they had been burned over."

OKLAHOMA TO ACT NEXT ON FULL REPEAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 12—UP—Members of the Oklahoma House of Representatives, between long drinks of local beer, late today passed a bill to set up machinery for a vote on repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Bottler after, as if leaving an honored guest, 62 members of the House cursed their "axes."

The measure, if approved by the Senate and Governor W. H. Murray, would give Oklahoma the chance to vote in December or early in January on the repeal question.

The beer, several cases of it, was distributed both in Senate and House a few hours after Governor Murray proclaimed results of yesterday's election legalizing the beverage.

Slight Opposition
Opposition to the repeal election measure was meager, only 25 members voting against it, and observers predicted its passage by the Senate which receives it tomorrow.

Representative Robert Graham No. 1 beer advocate, acted as waiter in the House, passing out the bottles as House clerks led the roll.

Meanwhile, the Senate rushed through a beer regulation act, and cash registers in the tax commission rang up $125,000 in fees to state beer licensees.

Dealers estimated that more than 500,000 bottles of beer were consumed as Oklahoma officially ended the 26 year stretch in which beer was outlawed.

POSTMASTERS ARE FACING BIG CHANGES

Probable placing of all postmasters under civil service was indicated yesterday when President Franklin Roosevelt requested this move.

He signed an executive order changing the age limit and residence requirements of new appointees.

Publication of this order was regarded as signaling a batch of patronage appointments from the White House within the next few days.

A long list of names for job ranging from postmaster to collectors of internal revenue and United States attorneys has been prepared by Postmaster General Farley, the patronage dispenser.

Outsiders Favored
Shortly before the executive order was signed Mr. Roosevelt told newspaper men his newly created executive council to guide industrial recovery had decided to take Federal employees for the emergency agencies, such as the home loan bank board, public works and others, from the ranks of civil service workers who have been displaced in the administration's economy drive. There are more than 800 of these dismissed employees.

The President asserted, however, that the thousands who were "blanketed in" the civil service by executive order under Republican rule are not to be accepted for reemployment.

He has no objections, on the other hand, to these workers taking examinations and seeking reemployment on civil service basis on the same basis as those chosen through the merit system.

A complete survey of postmaster positions has been made and submitted to the President by Joseph C. O'Mahoney, First Assistant Postmaster General, including salaries paid and time devoted to the service by postmasters of the first, second and third classes which are not now under civil service.

In a letter transmitting the executive order to Farley, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"The studies which you have made show that there would be (Continued on page 8)

Notorious Sportsman Dumped From Auto In Suburb Near Chicago

CHICAGO, (Wednesday) July 13.—UP—John (Jake the Barber) Factor, held captive for 12 days by kidnapers and released last night in the suburb of LaGrange, was carried to his hotel suite here this morning weak, hungry and emaciated.

Factor's face was black with a heavy growth of beard.

He said he had been blindfolded for days and shielded his eyes from electric lights.

Starved 5 Days

Factor immediately was put to bed and a doctor summoned. He said he had not eaten for five days.

Although he declined to discuss many details of his captivity, Factor said no ransom had been paid.

He was held in a farmhouse about an hour and a half drive from LaGrange, he stated.

Horrible Experience

Factor described his captivity as 12 days of horror.

Twice, he said, the kidnapers placed machine guns at his back and threatened to kill him.

They abused and mistreated him, he related, and handled him with contempt.

Factor was found at the intersection of a LaGrange street by a policeman last night.

He said he had been freed from an automobile a few minutes before.

Seized July First

Factor, internationally known millionaire gambler and salesman, was seized early on July 1, and was held longer than any kidnapping victim who eventually returned.

Because Factor is wanted in England on swindling charges and because it is understood that ransom letters had been sent through the mails, the case had become of special interest to the Federal government.

FRUIT AREA AGITATORS SENTENCED

BRENTWOOD, July 12.—Daniel Benito, 56, of Oakley, was arrested early today and charged with vagrancy. Benito is the fourth man to be arrested in the orchard district, where threats of a strike have been heard.

BRENTWOOD, July 12.—Jail terms had been meted out today to two men arrested over the week-end in the Diablo Valley fruit strike area, and a third person had been given a 10-day suspended sentence.

Appearing before Justice of the Peace Wallace on charges of trespassing and disturbing the peace, R. Gonzales, 29, and F. Garcia, 25, both of Brentwood, were sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, while V. W. Lyons, 30, of Richmond, won the suspended sentence on a single complaint of peace disturbances.

The three men were taken into custody late Saturday night by Deputy Sheriff Joe McAvoy, Joseph Gomez Jr., and H. B. Hollenbaugh for an asserted attempt to distribute literature among the workers in that section.

Lyons also faces a peace disturbance charge in Martinez where he is said to have picketed the office of Mrs. Ruth McCord, county social service bureau director, with Joseph Bertino and his son, both of Walnut Creek. All three are at liberty under $25 bail.

The apricot pickers are seeking an increase from 15 to 20 cents an hour and the literature being distributed also calls for free rents and food to be supplied to the employed by the fruit growers.

A force of approximately 15 deputies is being maintained in the area to check the possibility of further flareups among the agitators.

CONDITIONS OF WORKER ARE BETTER

HAYWARD, July 12.—A worker with an influenza virus in his system, who had been in the hospital for a week, was discharged today. It was reported here today by Mrs. Leo Boyd Stephens, of the County chairmen's committee.

Mrs. Stephens, formerly an early secretary of the workers' board of Southern California, said a new worker survey had been made of the situation here. The survey showed that the new alignment of labor or situation since the economic crisis forced some men to do so.

The survey also showed that 962 cases of influenza had been reported as compared to a total of nearly 2000 a year ago.

The present total, she pointed out, showed a decrease of 500 cases, a point of relief within the last two months.

Seasonal employment possibilities and the combining of several families in one home, she said, are two of the reasons for the decrease in other work.

Each case, Mrs. Stephens said, represented an average of $12 per month expended by the community.

An increase in the rate of cases is expected in October and later, she said, when the seasonal agricultural work will start.

"Looking Forward" adaptation of the stage hit "Service" is said to be Lionel Barrymore's finest screen portrayal and also boasts of big cast of M-G-M stars including Lewis Stone, Benita Hume, Elizabeth Allen and Alva B. Francis.

The story concerns a modern family living through the depression and surviving business failure through foresight and courage as exemplified in our "new deal" leadership.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, July 12.—It wasn't such a long time ago when one had to know every politician from the mayor down to the smallest ward-healer to operate a speakeasy in New York. In order to get a drink of beer you had to be recommended by the cop on beat, you had to exhibit your birth certificate and empty your wallet of name cards, a note from your father, your pastor, your school teacher, and the famous "loc" through an amount of grilling and cross questioning.

Speakeasies were private, intimate. If you weren't known, it was just too bad, that was all. If you were lucky—or unlucky—enough to get past the barred door and into the bar proper, you had to wink three times with your left eye, cross your fingers and whisper a password into the waiter's ear. The boys were taking no chances. Every customer was a possible "probi" and any proprietor with nerve enough to buck a law as strict as the Volstead Act was, in those dead days, looked upon as a very courageous fellow flouting with a ten-year jail term.

YEAR after year the grip relaxed, the iron bars were thrown down and the wooden bars thrown open to more and more customers. Suspicion and caution died slowly, until today your little daughter Margaret could enter any New York speakeasy and leave with a bottle of brandy in her pocketbook, no questions asked, and come again some time. And a few short years ago proprietors of the whoopee parlors would object to taxicabs waiting outside the doors at ungodly hours of the morning. They gave the place away. It was dangerous.

Last night we took a visiting fireman to a brownstone front up in the sixties. It was 3 A. M. and the street was completely deserted except for a couple of alley cats. A little way up the street my guest was astonished to notice a long line of about fifteen taxicabs, huddled around a moment's notice. The visitor was amazed that the cabs shouldn't be cruising around the lighter lights instead of flitting away the time on lonely back streets. But this was a prospering taxi "stand."

A BEAM of light shining through an open doorway cut the darkness. This was Joe's Place, open to one and all. A couple of dozen merry-makers were ringing the welkin, singing the spirits of the night and having a swell time. The cop on the beat was tucked away in the corner, with a hamburger and a bottle of beer.

Years ago it took us two weeks to get a license to operate a speakeasy. Now it takes a few days. The law is relaxed, the iron bars are thrown down, and the wooden bars are thrown open to more and more customers.

CHAPTER XX
THE gambling fraternity was in an uproar. Lawyers for them sought injunctions against interference with the operations of the tracks. The harassed sheriff issued statements that his men had been keeping a close eye on the tracks but had found no evidence of gambling. He scored the prosecutor for butting in. Clinton countered with charges against the sheriff for laxity.

The hitherto insignificant Republican candidate for sheriff came out with broadsides against conditions under his Democratic opponent and added to the hullabaloo.

And through the city, boys cried extras informing a startled citizen that the "greatest clean-up in history" was under way.

Jerry sat in his office, looking at the telephone and with each report the grin on his face spread, till his face actually ached and the muscles of his cheeks had to relax into an expression of seriousness.

And Mickey McNell thought Jerry Dugan would try to muscle in on him, eh, he thought. Well, Mickey knew by now that there was more than one way of skinning a cat. Mickey was in jail.

THE lawyers, fixers and bondsmen for the gamblers hurried around at police headquarters and in the courts. Temporary restraining orders against the tracks became permanent injunctions.

Within a few days after the "clean-up" had started, trains had been hundreds of miles to other cities. These were the driving element attracted to the race tracks and the easy pickings in a "wide open" town. They went to seek easy pickings in other fields.

Meanwhile Jerry had several talks with The Chief. He wanted to begin putting his new organization into the field before the former gambling overlords had got a chance to recover and reorganize.

He got in touch with half a dozen men from Louie's gang whom he knew he could trust, and started them out to organize new pools and lotteries to take over the waiting business in the Roaring Third. He sent Hymie to Chicago to make "negotiations for taking over the wires from the various race tracks on the continent for the area of Jerry's county. Hymie came back with a couple of men who wanted to look over the situation first. When they learned the fact of Jerry's county, Hymie was in, they closed the deal with Jerry.

AND the telephone company had a new switchboard and a new network of wires to put in covering the city from the new wire room Jerry set up.

As to the race tracks, Jerry bided his time. It was near the end of the season for this climate anyhow. When Louie got his first lottery

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD—UP—The movies like bridge players, can double and redouble when it comes to uncovering people who look like famous personalities.

Hollywood can prove that every human not only has a double, but that the double may have a twin. The casting offices haven't fallen down yet, despite the ingenuity and effort required.

George Washington, Theodore Roosevelt, President Roosevelt, Prof. Auguste Piccard, Prof. Einstein, Al Capone, Jimmy Walker and General Pershing are only a few of the famous who have Hollywood doubles.

President Von Hindenburg and the Prince of Wales are the only two in the memory of veteran casters whose doubles have not come to light in these parts.

A few new ones were chalked up recently by Fred Schaeffer, casting director at R-K-O, who found doubles for James J. Corbett, John L. Sullivan and Steve Brodie. Now he's looking for Chuck Connors, famous Chinatown guide in New York; Paul Dresser, late song writer and brother of Theodore Dreiser; Ellen Terry, DeWolf Hopper and Julia Marlowe. They all appear in a Gay Nineties flick starring Irene Dunne.

Studio casters hail with the discovery of each new double and immediately add the name to their voluminous files of famous people. One of the most difficult tasks in searching for doubles, says Schaeffer, is in obtaining authentic data on the appearance of originals.

Studios work together in finding famed doubles. Sometimes an assistant director will stand on a downtown street corner several days scanning passersby, alert for the chance double.

BLIND ALLEY

BY ROBERT BORDNER

Mary Briggs, singing in her uncle's night club, meets Jerry Dugan, a childhood friend. She learns that he is a gangster. His power steadily increases as he seizes control of a wide variety of "rackets." Meanwhile he becomes engaged to Mickey McNell. When he seeks to branch out into the race-track and lottery business, he clashes with Mickey McNell, boss of the race game. Using his political power, Jerry starts a "clean-up" of the race tracks and gets most of Mickey's operators thrown into jail.

operating, Jerry took ticket No. 13. It bore the name of his new syndicate. Across at the scrawled, "Nothing personal in this, of course," and dropped it in the mail addressed to Mickey. And that man smiled grimly when he got it, folded it and tucked it in his bill fold.

That afternoon Jerry took Mary to the baseball game. After the game they went to Jerry's for dinner. And Mary had a new little surprise.

The table was set in a little alcove off the huge dining room that had put such a damper on his last dinner party with her there. Jerry had had the alcove built since so that the lofty splendor of the great room with its long table paring them could no longer chill the atmosphere.

Mary was delighted. She felt especially gay and they chatted happily over the dinner. Afterward they returned to the living room.

Mary rumbled Jerry's blond curls. "There, now. You look just like a little boy again," she said. He took her in his arms.

"HAVEN'T you changed your mind about marrying me yet?" he asked.

"Not a bit," she answered. "Not till you get out of this business and settle down to a proper way of living, dear."

He kissed her for answer. And while they sat making love to each other, Louie stood on a corner of Woodland Avenue talking to one of the new men he had recruited as a lottery solicitor. Few persons were nearby. "I've closed their business, the man held out his hand to shake Louie's, and the gang leader's gun fingers fell into an iron grip.

In a second a man loitering near had stepped behind Louie, pressing a gun against his spine. The man pulled the trigger. The explosion was half muffled by the clothing. Louie fell face down. The first man kicked him over on a fluttering bit of paper on his coat.

Then the two slipped into an alley and disappeared. A passerby stepped stupidly. Others came. Soon there were friends of the dead man from a neighboring smoke shop.

THE police came. They found all that and Louie's bit of paper. That and Louie's gun had been moved by a friend. The word spread like lightning through the section.

Louie had been bumped off right in the heart of his own territory, with his men and friends within calling distance. And his killer or killers had faded off the scene unknown.

Down the street a man got into a taxi. He gave the address of Jerry's place. The gunmen in the lounge room at the head of the first flight of stairs leaped from their card game as he announced, "Somebody got Louie."

Chuck came down from the third floor.

"Here's his gun and a note that was pinned on him. It don't make sense to me," explained the messenger.

Chuck took the note and bounded up the stairs.

Jerry heard the pounding at his door. He kissed Mary again and told her to wait. At the door Chuck gave him the news and the note.

It was lottery ticket No. 1, and across it was scrawled in his own writing, "Nothing personal in this, of course."

TOMORROW: A girl in the cemetery.

This camp, situated in Placer county which is an old mining district, was closed Sunday upon the completion of a month's glorious program.

Mrs. Beatrice F. Hall, Richmond Girl Scout director, returned yesterday after serving during the month as business manager. Richmond Girl Scouts who went to Far-away Mine were Ruth Curry, first class and Fern Johnson, second class Scouts of the high school troop. Ruth attended the first two week session and Fern remained for the entire month. The number of girls for the two sessions averaged 65 with 20 staff members.

The staff consisted of women trained in various special activities of Girl Scouting such as Nature, Handicraft, Indian lore, Pioneer and Dramatics. Also we took our nurse and a dietitian. Two staff members were there from Chicago, one from Boston and another came from South Dakota to spend the summer in California. Several of the junior assistants were splendid young women who will continue their studies at the University of California in August.

Our very successful director was Miss Barbara E. McMillan, the Berkeley local director. The unit system through which the program was presented will be explained in a later Girl Scout column.

Far-away Mine is ideally situated for pioneer camping. Among the tall pine and cedar trees, the pioneer trail leads Girl Scouts to the camp site which is about two miles north of Dutch Flat, another of California's flourishing centers during gold rush days. The quaint buildings which are occupied at the present time recall the activities of the pioneers who lived there during the days of extensive hydraulic mining.

The residents of Dutch Flat told us many interesting historical incidents of that part of our state. The designs, overgrown in places with low shrubs and pine trees, present a colorful picture along the valley of the Bear river. Pure, clear mountain water is plentiful and small lakes reflect the beauty of the scene.

Flying Colonel Lands on Lake Near St. Johns

BIG POND, NFD., July 12.—UP—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh on a route charting air cruise over the north Atlantic, landed here late today from Halifax, N. S.

They brought the plane down at 5:05 p. m., EDT.

The fliers, following the route Lindbergh took on his initial non-stop solo trans-Atlantic flight to Paris, brought their big barrel-bodied, low wing plane down on the steel surface of this lake to the cheers of hundreds gathered for a glimpse of the "flying colonel."

Lindbergh missed the location of Big Pond, ten miles south of St. Johns, and alighted first at Quidi, near here. He obtained directions and took off again at 4:50 p. m. EDT., for Big Pond.

The plane had been sighted flying over the city shortly after 1 p. m. It cruised around for half an hour before coming down for directions.

Crowds gathered in the streets to gaze at the Lindbergh plane, flying low and in circles over the city.

Police had a difficult time of it holding back the crowds as the Lindberghs came ashore. The fliers were welcomed with tumultuous shouts of:

"Welcome to Newfoundland, brave Lindy."

"A thousands welcomes, Mrs. Lindbergh."

The tall flier and his wife acknowledged the greetings with waves and smiles as they moved from the landing to a motor car and were driven to St. Johns, preceded by a police escort.

Cameramen broke through the jam and snapped the colonel much to his apparent annoyance.

POSTMASTERS ARE FACING BIG CHANGES

large savings to the government if the existing law were changed and all present postmasterships were placed on a strictly civil service basis as is the case under the existing law relating to fourth class postoffices.

Wants Bill Prepared

"Will you, therefore, be good enough to prepare for me proposed legislation to this effect in order that I may submit it to the next session of Congress."

The executive order raised the maximum age limit from 65 to 66 years and reduced the minimum requirement for residence in the area served by the postoffice from two years to one.

Another change made in existing rules is that if Farley does not submit for reappointment the name of an incumbent of a first, second or third class office, or the name of some person of the classified civil service list, the Civil Service Commission is directed to hold an open competitive examination "to test the fitness of applicants not in either of the above mentioned classes to fill such vacancy."

In addition the Postmaster General is given virtually blanket authority to reject the names of those certified by the commission after the examination "if he shall find that such person or persons are disqualified."

At first it was reported that the new order would permit the nomination of some 1500 acting postmasters who have been named since March 4 without examination, but later it was explained that they must take examinations with the others.

The executive order was prepared by Farley after a conference with the Civil Service Commission, and President Mitchell of the commission has indicated that every effort will be made to speed up the examinations.

Will Speed Appointments

For the purposes of economy and to avoid delay in filling vacancies, Farley said, the commission will abandon the practice of sending special agents to investigate personally applicants for first and second class offices.

Instead they will be asked to answer a questionnaire prepared by the commission which will be similar to written tests taken by applicants for third class offices. The first, second and third class offices are in the larger cities and towns. Fourth class offices are those in small villages and crossroad settlements.

Forger King Is Held by Police Of Oregon City

PORTLAND, Ore., July 12—UP.—The king-pin of forgers, a man wanted in 47 cities in the United States for operating under 28 aliases—was believed held in jail tonight in the person of William Bowen.

Bowen, according to a bulletin issued by the American Bankers' association, is "wanted" on bad check charges in nearly every state in the union. He is said to have used 38 different names in passing checks running from $15 to $500 each.

Portland police were holding him awaiting information from the Bankers' association where the man is "wanted" the most.

Detective Captain H. A. Thatcher said Bowen had checks totalling $15,000 in his possession when arrested.

One was alleged to be a cashier check for $12,000 drawn on an El Reno, Okla., bank, bearing the purported signature of J. M. Barry, cashier.

War Gets Hot Over Synthetic Children

did not deny he was the man she referred to.

"I am indignant that Mrs. Hommel should dare to say I know all about this so-called 'scientific birth' said Mrs. Hommel. 'I don't even know what it means. I can't see what purpose she gained by telling such a story.'

Denies Story

"I am so proud that Mr. Hommel says he never knew Mr. Corcoran until after the birth of her children. The home in which my son and his wife lived at that time was an old-fashioned double house. The Corcorans lived in the other half of it.

"My son's wife was well acquainted with the boy next door. I understand he was then only about 18. My son was then in Russia and India doing war work."

If Shelley and his family are indignant, Corcoran is more so.

Corcoran Annoyed

"I never knew Doctor Breitenbach, nor Doctor Dunwoody, and I do not believe Mrs. Shelley or Mrs. Hommel ever went to their offices," he said. "There have been so many lies told that I am forced to take a stand for my personal dignity. The scientific father is absurd."

Mrs. Hommel in her testimony named Dr. John Dunwoody, who died in 1919 as the physician who engineered the "laboratory births." Doctor Breitenbach, one of the city's most widely-known physicians, confirmed the story. He was Doctor Dunwoody's superior, he said, and was present at the operation Mrs. Hommel described.

Under its provisions progress is being made. It is the fixed policy of the Standard Oil Company of California not to sell to price-cutters and not to seek to capture outlets of its competitors.

Here is the AAA Report. Read it: "This is to certify that we, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, have conducted a series of tests on Standard Gasoline, manufactured by Standard Oil Company of California, and six other gasolines considered to be leading brands, for comparative detonation (anti-knock), under actual road conditions, using what is technically known as the Cooperative Fuel Research Road Test method.

Under the procedure and conditions that obtained at the time of the test in this car, we find Standard Gasoline is unsurpassed.

All tests were conducted by us under carefully controlled conditions of operation, in a 1933 stock model sedan, and in accordance with the rules and policies of the AAA Contest Board. This statement is based on data developed by and on file with the AAA Contest Board."
